

▲ Brisbane's west: 70 Blackstone St, Indooroopilly over $1 million

NICOLE and Jeremy Carew-Reid are selling their Donald Spencer-designed home in the foothills of Mt Coot-tha at Indooroopilly in Brisbane's west, about five minutes' drive from the CBD.

The house is on a 1647sqm block surrounded by state forest, and almost every room has bush-land views.

The Carew-Reids lived in Canberra, Geneva, Kathmandu and Hanoi before settling in Indooroopilly for 11 years while their children, Sebastien and Chloe, completed school and university.

The two-level, four-bedroom home features ash-timber floors, wood-paneled walls and breeze-ways between living areas.

Lounge and dining areas open on to full-length decks, and there is a pool overlooking the bush.

The property will go to auction next Saturday through Carol Roberts of Johnston Dixon Quality Property.
